 Try saying my name.
Hesitantly JACOB begins to move his mouth.
 JACOB
 Michael...
MICHAEL'S name bursts from JACOB in a scream of ecstasy.

The
sound shatters the darkness like a single ripple of life across

an entire sea of death. The force of it knocks MICHAEL back.

He
wipes JACOB'S mouth, which is now bleeding.
 MICHAEL
 Not yet...
The scene ends with Michael and Jacob walking together into the light.

This passage also appears to be a scene from a movie or a book, specifically a fantasy or science fiction genre. It describes a character, Michael, who has the ability to bring the dead back to life and help them stand up. The passage includes vivid and emotionally charged descriptions of Jacob's resurrection, such as Jacob's eyes moisten and Jacob's mouth moving. The use of religious imagery, such as Michael kissing Jacob on the forehead and Jacob's eyes "bursting" with love and amazement, creates a sense of transcendence and spirituality. The scene ends on a note of anticipation, as Jacob takes his first step and Michael warns him that he is not yet ready.
